The swing away support belt for the R82 Addax standing frame fits around the pelvis and chest. Firm side pads provide postural stability, helping the child maintain an upright position and take part in activities. The swing-away function allows easy access to the frame during transfers, in prone or supine, making transfers simpler. Width between pads and belt circumference are adjustable to fit the child, with angle-adjustable pads to accommodate asymmetries and comfortable abduction fit. The circumference is secured with hook and loop and a buckle for quick, secure setup.
